Hat Pins made out of Real Roses

Real Rose Hat Pins

It does not seem possible, yet it is true, that these Hat Pins are made out of live roses, and changed into metal by a secret process. The discovery is without doubt one of the lost arts of the ancient Egyptians. They are the most beautiful of all Hat Pins. Not worn alike. Made in finishes to conform to the prevailing fashions in millinery. Six sizes

Everybody is talking about them. Don't fail to come in and see them. These are the genuine DELAMOTHE Real Rose Hat Pins.

REAL FACTS FOR PRIMARY VOTERS

INFORMATION THAT MAY BE OF USE TO THE READERS
TUESDAY NEXT.

ONLY MARK ONE BALLOT

Voters Can, However, Write Names of Candidates in, But Votes for Candidates on Opposite Ticket Do Not Count as Party Aid.

Tuesday next is primary day and every voter in the county should turn out and exercise his right of suffrage. That the voters may understand the workings of the primary law and the method of voting the following explanation is prepared.

The voter goes to the polls, where he will be given four tickets fastened together at the top with a wire clip. The first, or top ticket, will be the democratic, then the republican, then the socialist democratic. On each ticket is the list of those seeking nomination under their respective party headings. The names of the state officers are on the left of the heavy column, the county at the right.

The voter selects whichever party ticket he desires and puts a cross mark (X) after the name of each candidate he desires to vote for. He can vote for only one candidate for each office. The names of all candidates running for a particular office are printed in alphabetical order directly below the name of the office they are running for. If a voter desires to vote for a different man than any of the printed names on the ballot, he has the privilege of writing the name of the man he wants to vote for in the space immediately below the printed names. After he has the ballot marked, the voter detaches it from the other three ballots and hands it to the inspector, who puts it into the ballot box; the other three unmarked ballots go into another box. There are some important points to be remembered.

Mark Out One Ticket.
1st. You can mark only one ticket. You cannot mark after some candidates on the democratic ticket, and some on the republican ticket, because two ballots will not be accepted at the box; only one. There is therefore no such thing as a "scratch" ticket. If you desire to vote for a candidate who is not on the ticket of the party you ordinarily affiliate with, the way to do is to mark his name on the other ticket and vote that ticket.

2d. You are not obliged to vote for candidates for every office. You can vote for many or as few as you choose. Those will be counted that you mark after.

How to "Scratch" a Ticket.
3d. You can write any name you want to in the blank spaces under the names, even the name of a candidate on one of the other tickets, but it will not be counted for that candidate on the other ticket. To illustrate: a voter has the democratic ticket before him. He writes the name of the republican candidate for county clerk on the democratic ticket. The vote would not be counted for Mr. Blank to help give him the nomination on the republican ticket. It would be simply one vote for him to give him the nomination on the democratic ticket. If the name were written in on enough democratic tickets to give him the most votes on that ticket, he would be the democratic nominee. In addition probably to being the republican nominee. One of the possibilities, though not probabilities, under the new law, therefore is, that a man might get the nomination of more than one party.

Must Mark After Each Name.
4th. This is an election to decide who are to be the nominees, not who is to be elected; there is therefore no such thing as "voting" a straight ticket. Your votes and marks determine who shall go on the ticket to be voted on at the regular election in November. You must mark a cross (X) after the name of every man you desire nominated.

5th. The voter is at liberty to mark whichever ticket he pleases. A democrat may vote a republican ticket, or a republican a democratic, or a prohibition a republican and vice versa, whichever strikes his fancy or inclination. His vote is absolutely secret; no one knows what ticket he votes. The ticket he votes goes into the box; the others go into another.

TOBACCO BUYERS IN THE COUNTRY TODAY

Edgerton Reporter Announces Advent of Easterners Into Wisconsin Territory.

Wisconsin tobacco is to be eagerly sought after by eastern buyers if the report published in the Edgerton Tobacco Reporter is to be taken as an example. The Reporter says: "Information reaching us from the Vernon county district where the buying movement has been under way for the past ten days, is that the first rush is about over. Only a few hundred acres have been contracted for to date and the prices so well set up as to pretty effectively block the movement. Not more than 25 per cent of the crop was desirable as a field purchase anyway, and a large proportion of the buyers have quit the field for the present. There has been some riding in the southern sections also during the week and we learn a few contract made, generally under 10 cents for the wrapper and binder grades.

"The ice was broken on Alton Prairie when the following crops were sold to L. P. Sutter at prices ranging from 8 to 9 1/2 cents for wrapper and binder and 2 cents for filler grades: Chas. Tall, 12 acres; Frank Barton, 7 acres; Anthony Anderson, 5 1/2 acres; Fred Mubson, 6 acres; W. H. Condon, 4 1/2 acres.

been closed that we can learn of. "The shipments out of storage reach 500 casks from this market to all points for the week."

FATHER VAUGHAN ON "THE POWER OF LOVE"

Large Audience Listened to Noted Lecturer at Opera-House Last Evening.

Last evening at the Myers Opera House Father Vaughan, the noted dramatic lecturer, delivered his famous lecture on "The Power of Love." A large audience which listened to every word of the speaker and at the close warmly applauded him welcomed the speaker and at the close warmly applauded him welcomed the speaker and at the close warmly applauded him welcomed the speaker.

Two vocal selections by members of the St. Cecilia Singing society of St. Mary's church opened the program. The chorus was under the direction of Prof. W. T. Thiele. Father Vaughan was then introduced by C. H. Hornbush.

The theme of Father Vaughan's talk was that the power of love, charity, sympathy and the brotherhood of man was the main thing in the religion of Christ. That through the power of love he was able to accomplish what he did. He scathingly arraigned that religion which scoffed at little things and sought only for power and the accomplishment of great projects.

Father Vaughan's lecture was closely listened to for the hour and a half during which he spoke. The stage was beautifully decorated with potted plants, palms and ferns.

Three Games Planned to be Played During the Month of October.

Thomas Abbott and C. B. Conrad were in Janesville yesterday to arrange with Manager H. Casselhorn of Madison to put a team in the field for Janesville. Abbott and Conrad have given Casselhorn orders to put a team in the field regardless of expense and Henry Mills and Wick Stokes of Beloit are determined to beat Janesville. It is hoped that good crowds will turn out at Yonka Park for the games and show their appreciation by helping out financially.

GET AN INJUNCTION AGAINST THE BOARD

Attorney Charles Pierce Starts Proceedings Against Barbers Board.

Representing the interests of H. A. Laymonde, attorney Charles Pierce obtained an injunction against the State Barbers Board restraining them from interfering with Mr. Laymonde in the conduct of his business. The injunction was granted by a local court commissioner and will be heard in the circuit court here some time this fall.

The board at present is composed of G. F. McDonough of Superior, M. H. Whitaker of Janesville and Henry Helms of Rockburg. This board makes rules and regulations, its members so about getting evidence of the infraction of these rules and regulations and then the offending barber is tried before the board for infraction of rules made by it and with evidence collected by it. If he is found guilty his certificate is taken from him. Mr. Pierce contends that the legislature cannot delegate its legislative powers as it has done here and that the same tribunal cannot make rules and try offenders for their infraction.

The complaint is made that the rules adopted are impossible to follow, and it may be that this will be made a test case as regards certain of them.

BRYAN DEFENDS GUARANTY PLAN

SAYS CHOICE IS BETWEEN IT AND POSTAL SAVINGS.

MAKES SPEECH IN TOPEKA

Chairman Mack Confers with Murphy—Hitchcock Meets Republican Leaders from the South and West.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 28.—Before an audience which filled the Auditorium to overflowing, W. J. Bryan, Democratic candidate for president, Thursday night spoke on the subject of guaranty of bank deposits. Previously he had delivered three addresses, two from the veranda of the hotel and the third at Garfield park, where he attended a picnic by the Knights of Pythias.

As announced by him before his departure from Kansas City, Mr. Bryan, in view of the action of the Kansas Republican state convention which endorsed the guaranty of deposit proposition, made some remarks supplementary to his prepared speech on that subject. He took up the advantages of the guaranty system and then answered the objections made to it by Mr. Taft and others.

Postal Savings or Guaranty.

He began by asking why the depositor should be left unsecured when the national government demanded security of any bank with which it deposited money. He pointed out that the choice was between the postal savings bank and the guaranty bank, and accused Mr. Taft of favoring an unnecessary extension of the sphere of government in advocating the postal savings bank instead of the guaranty bank. Mr. Bryan declared that he preferred the guaranty bank proposition, which would allow the banks to attend to the banking business and yet compel them to give their depositors necessary security.

Mack Confers with Murphy.

New York, Aug. 28.—As a first step toward an effort to restore harmony in the ranks of the Democratic party in New York state, Chairman Norman E. Mack of the Democratic national committee Thursday night conferred with Charles E. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall, Senator Patrick H. McCarron of Brooklyn, whose leadership in that borough is threatened by his break with the Tammany leader, was at the Hoffman House late in the day, but did not visit national headquarters. Mr. Mack, however, intimated that he expected to see Mr. McCarron within a few days.

Hitchcock Meets Southerners.

New York, Aug. 28.—Some of the plans Republican politicians in the south are making in an effort to increase the Republican representation in congress from their states were made known to Chairman Hitchcock Thursday by visitors from Virginia, Alabama and Louisiana. The plan for "the invasion of the south" was outlined by Mr. Taft in recent speeches and interviews in Hot Springs, Va. He expressed the opinion that an effort ought to be made by the Republican national campaign managers to carry close districts, and Mr. Hitchcock concurs in that view.

Cheerful News from the West.

Senator P. J. McCumber and National Committeeman James Kennedy of North Dakota talked with Mr. Hitchcock about affairs in the western states. They predicted that North Dakota and adjoining states would cast as strong a vote for Mr. Taft as was received by Mr. Roosevelt four years ago. Senator McCumber declared that the factional differences in North Dakota and adjoining states have been eliminated so far as the national ticket is concerned.

H. F. Alexander, president of the Alaska-Pacific Steamship company, at the Republican headquarters expressed the opinion that there will be a landslide on the Pacific coast for Taft and Sherman. He declared that the Democratic plank in relation to Asiatic labor was not proving a sufficient argument to change voters who have been Republicans.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

JANE CABLE, upon entering the cab offered no resistance when Graydon drew her head over against his shoulder, his strong right hand clasped her listless fingers, and the warmth of his heart came bounding into her veins as if by magic. He did not speak to her, but she knew that he was claiming her then for all time. She knew that nothing could stand in the way of his purpose. The sole growl was despairing, her understanding of things less vague and uncertain. A few moments before she had felt that she was no kin to the world; now there was a new appreciation of love and its greatness in her heart.

This man had loved her, and he would take her up and shield her against the hate of the world. There had not been a moment when her own love for him wavered. She worshipped him now as she had in the beginning. The revelation of Dream, the theatre scenes in the cafe, the crushing of the small hope she had cherished, all conspired in this scene to awaken her into a realization of what an overbalancing power love is.

Unconsciously her fingers tightened upon his, and her body drew closer. She was straying herself against the fear that she might lose this haven of rest and joy, after all—the haven she had been willing to sacrifice and destroy in the bitterness of her heart. A great wave of pity for herself came sweeping over her. It grew out of the dread that he might, after all, deny her the place that no one else in the world could give.

Graydon's cold face was suddenly illuminated. The incomprehensible sweetness of pain rushed through his blood. He had given up his hope as blighted after the harsh hour with Dream. He could not believe his new found success. Doubt, unbelief, enveloped him as he raised her head, a kiss crying for his kind. His arm crept behind her shoulders. She did not offer a repulse. Her wet cheek touched his in submission. It was the first time his hungry arms had held her in centuries. It seemed to him—and to her. It was the first time their lips had met, except in dreams, since that horrid night so long ago.

"Jane, Jane!" he was whispering in her ear. Her plans, her purposes, her sacrifices, were running away from her in riotous disorder. She could not hold them in check. They fled like winged things before the older and stronger hopes and desires.

They did not know of the blockade of cars at the corner of Forty-second street nor how long they stood there. Shooting cabbies and police officers tried to rival the white blizzard in profuseness, but they did not hurt them.

"Oh, Graydon, I cannot, I must not!" she was crying, holding his hand with almost frenzied disdain for the words so platonically loyal. "It is out of the question, dearest. You know it is. I love you—oh, how I love you! But I—I must not be your wife. I—"

"I've had enough of this, Jane," he said so firmly that she stiffened perceptibly in his arms. "It's all confounded rot. Excuse me, but it is. I know you think you're right, but you're not. Old Miss gave the best advice in the world.

You know what it was. 'We've just got to make our own happiness. Nobody else will do it for us, and it's just as easy to be happy as it is to be the other way. I'm tired of pleading. I've waited as long as I intend to. We're going to be married tomorrow."

"Graydon?"

"Don't refuse! It's no use, dearest. We've lost a year or two. I don't intend to lose another day. What do I care about your father and mother? What did they care about you? You owe all the rest of your life to yourself and to me. Come, will you consent willingly or not?" He paused. She was very still in his arms for a long time.

"I do so want to be happy," she said at last, reflectively. "So, not don't say anything yet. I am only wondering how it will be after we've been married for a few years. When I'm growing old and plain and you begin to tire of me, no more men grow weary of their wives—what then? Ah, Graydon, I—I have thought about all that too. You'll never reproach me openly—you couldn't do that. I know. But you may secretly punish the secret which."
